UNKNOWN IS FOUND ON TRACK

Man Dies Soon After Discovery of Body by Street Car Men

BROUGHT TO CHARLEROI

Lying in the middle of the railroad tracks, his right hand severed and a deep cut extending from the right side of his upper lip across below his nose and up the left side of his nose to his eye, an unknown young man was discovered in a dying state by street car men 200 yard south of the Speers P. R. R. station Thursday evening at 8:35 o'clock. The man was rushed to the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, where he died a few minutes afterward without regaining consciousness.

The man was first seen walking on the railroad tracks by street car men on their trip southward. On their return they discovered the inert body on the tracks. The opinion was that the man had been struck by northbound evening train No. 171. At the point where the man was found the car tracks of the Pittsburg-Charleroi line are close to those of the railroad. At once the unconscious form was picked up and brought to the hospital. In his pocket when found there was a bottle of whiskey, and the general belief was that the man, intoxicated, had stumbled directly in the path of the train.

From appearances the man was about 28 years old. He was clean shaven, had light chestnut colored hair, heavy eyebrows, prominent lips, rather small hands from which the signs of toil were lacking, and two vaccination scars on the left arm. He is described as a man about 5 feet 7 inches in height, and of a rather heavy build. His clothing would indicate that he had just come from Uniontown. Various articles were found in his pockets, but not of much consequence. A small pocketbook contained but $3.

A hat bore the label of Lynch's store in Uniontown and a pair of shoes he had on bore the stamp of Axlerod's store in Uniontown. He carried a handkerchief with the initial "A" worked in one corner and his appearance seemed to indicate that he was a man of fastidious habits.

The body was removed from the hospital to the undertaking rooms of Deputy Coroner Lawrence B. Frye in Charleroi.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM AT LYRIC TONIGHT

Arthur Johnson the noted moving picture actor will be shown at the Lyric theatre this evening in "Leader of Men" an excellent two reel production. The program includes many good features among them being "Broncho Billy'y Leap" with the famous G. M. Anderson. Other specials of tonight's program are "Her Horrid Honeymoon" and "Wifie's Visit Home." In addition to these two other pictures will be shown.

CHARLEROI TO PLAY AT ROSCOE SATURDAY

The Charleroi club of the Monongahela valley league is scheduled to play its Saturday game at Roscoe, with the Roscoe aggregation.

ORDINANCE IS MUCH AMENDED

Railways Statute Which Passes Second Reading of Council Changed

After the franchise ordinance granting rights to the Pittsburg Railways company to lay tracks to their proposed new freight and passenger station on McKean avenue and Sixth street had been presented, numerously amended, council at a special meeting Tuesday took action passing it on second reading. This was one of various matters of importance that was taken up by council.

Council notified the Tri-Cities Water company to adopt measures to prevent an overflow at their filtration plant on McKean avenue above First street. According to complaints water has been overflowing to the pavement and running from there to the street.

The Independent Brewing company was authorized by a permit to lower the curb in front of the door to their garage at McKean avenue and First stret. Council arranged upon adjournment, to hold a postponed meeting next Tuesday evening.

LOSES HIS SAVINGS IN BOLD HOLDUP

Kuba Gets Friendly With Monongahela Negro With Serious Results

Monongahela was the scene of a startling holdup Wednesday night that occurred at the corner of Main and First streets. John Kuba, a foreigner from the M. & W. branch was the victim and a happy-go-lucky negro, whose most pronounced characteristic was his conviviality, was the bold highwayman.

Audicity characterized the holdup, which was performed with a naive simplicity and fastidiousness of manner that would have done credit to the most charming western raffles that ever relieved a friendly Irishman of his loose change.

Kuba upon his arrival in Monongahela Wednesday afternoon proceeded to the nearest haven for the thirsty. After that he tested other brands of refreshments as served in other palatial palaces of plenty. It was while making faces at himself in a mirror of a Second street cafe that he was attracted by a friendly negro. Conviviality reigned, and the negro invited John out for a walk to see a lady friend.

Arriving at Main and First streets Kuba suddenly became aware of the fact that he was blinking at the business end of a long black revolver, and that his friend the negro was politely requesting him to fork over his loose change and any other evidences of plutocratic wealth that he happened to have about his person. Kuba mournfully pulled out 15 cents, and tried to bribe the dangerously dark Raffles, but it was no go. Then he found it necessary to pull $6 from a hiding place and proffer it to the bold brigand. Upon completion of his performance the negro made himself so conspicuous by his absence that to date the police have been unable to find any trace of him. Poor John had to walk home.

BIG OUTING TO BE HELD BY BAPTISTS

Monongahela Valley Churches to Combine For Monster Picnic at Eldora Park on July 23 --Committees Are Appointed

Baptist Sunday schools of churches in several towns of the Monongahela valley and contiguous territory will hold their second annual picnic at Eldora park on July 23. At a meeting of representatives of the various churches held at Eldora park Thursday evening the date and place was selected, and committees appointed. Sheridan Roberts of Monongahela is the chairman of the general committee.

The churches which will be included in the plans for holding the picnic will be Library, Elizabeth, Riverview, Monongahela, Donora, Monessen, Belle Vernon, Charleroi and Bentleyville.

Arrangements will be made for a rendition of a musical program by talent from the various churches at the park on the day of the picnic. Other noteworthy features will be included in the day's program. A. G Lewis superintendent of the Charleroi Baptist Sunday school is the chairman of the committee on music. D. C. Whitlatch is the other representative of the Charleroi church in making preparations for the outing.

DEFENSE ENDING LABORS IN CASE AGAINST THOMAS

The defense in the trial of Walter Thomas, the youthful farm hand who is being tried in the court at Waynesburg for the murder of Mrs. Josephine Price at her home near Rices Landing last September will probably have all its direct testimony by this evening. At the latest the defense expected to rest its side of the case not later than tomorrow afternoon.

On Thursday 31 witnesses testified in behalf of the defense. An effort was made to raise a reasonable doubt in the minds of the twelve men who are to decide the fate of the young man who sits before them charged with the awful crime. The witnesses for the commonwealth did not seem worried over the evidence offered.

Witnesses were called upon to show that some one knocked for admittance at the home of W. C. House several times the night of the tragedy. Oliver Price, the husband of the dead woman stayed all that night at the home of W. C .House. This residence is not on the route that was traveled by Walter Thomas when he left the Price homestead and this evidence was introduced to show that probably the party that committed the crime came that way in the hope of finding Oliver Price.

Joseph Crago of Cumberland township and Joseph Schroyer of Carmichaels, testified that Oliver Price shortly after the tragedy stated to them that Mrs. Margaret M. House, who was making her home with her son, W. C. House, heard some one knocking at the door. Price also told them that he believed that if he had gone to the door he would have been killed.

Miss Effie Hewitt, a nurse, stated that she talked to Bertha Fox just before the girl was sent to the hospital, and that Bertha said that she did not know anything after she went to sleep in the evening until daylight the next morning. The witness also testified that Bertha said that Walter was angry because he had no tobacco.

James Guseman, a carpenter of Rices Landing testified that he did some work at the Price home during the summer of 1913, that he had a conversation with Mrs. Price concerning her son. Walter L. Price and quoted Mrs. Price as saying that her son had spent several thousand dollars which he had gotten from his father in the face of her objections. When opposed, she said, Walter wept and declared he would kill himself.

The court room was crowded all day Thursday. It was anticipated that Thomas would be placed on the stand, but his attorneys have not announced their decision on the matter. Women compose the majority of spectators at the trial.

CHARLEROI MAN MAKES RECORD SORTING MAIL

William E. McFall, chief clerk at the Charleroi postoffice, has a record for the handling of mail and the routing postoffices that it will be hard for any mail employe in the United States to beat.

An examination was given by C. S. Beaver of Pittsburg chief clerk of the railway mail service wherein Mr. McFall at the local postoffice routed 600 cards to as many postoffices. One mistake was made out of the 600.

Mr. McFall's work gave him a percentage of 99.98 per cent, an almost perfect mark, but this is not all. In handling the cards he routed them at the rate of 30 per minute. The average good rate is 16 per minute.

FALLOWFIELD GRANGE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

The Fallowfield Grange will hold its next meeting on June 18. Following is the literary program for the evening.

Recitation—Abraham Carson.

Impromptu class—Mrs. A. B. Lutes.

Oration—Loyal Lutes.

The members of the Grange will answer to roll call by giving a current event.

MRS CORWIN HOSTESS TO DIE LORALIE CLUB

Mrs. Carl Corwin entertained the members of Die Loralie club at her home on Crest avenue Thursday evening. Twelve members were present. The evening was spent by the ladies in social conversation and working fancy work. Lunch was served at the close of the evening by the hostess. The ladies then adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Davis Woodward of Lock View.

BODY FOUND UNDER TRAIN

Freight Car Has to be Pushed From Norris' Body Before He Can be Taken Out

His body caught fast under a freight car, James B. Norris, aged 30 years, and a nail worker, was found dead in the yard near the Monessen Page mills Thursday night about 10 o'clock.

Workmen at the mills saw the legs and arms of a man sticking out from under a freight car. They investigated and made discovery of the tragedy.

The body was removed to Wright's morgue, where it was identified by means of identification cards, tax receipt which was issued in the state of Alabama to Jim Norris, and apost card that he received at Alabama City, Alabama from his wife, who lives at Butler, Pennsylvania.

It is believed that he had gone to sleep while lying on the track. The indications were that he had been dead but a short time when found. His body was badly mangled

DANCES TO BE FEATURE NEXT WEEK

Eldora Park Announcement Shows Many Interesting Events

With two special dances and one picnic booked in addition to the regular events, Eldora park next week will be a busy place. Together with this ,preparations are being gotten under way for a monster demonstration to be held at the park on July 4, when a program similar to previous July programs will be given.

The first special dance to be given next week will be that of the Alpha Phi Beta fraternity on Wednesday evening. This fraternity is composed of some of the best known young men of the community and their dances are always events of much social interest. They have issued invitations, and committees are planning to make the occasion truly a feature.

Knights of Columbus council No. 955, of Monessen and council No 956 of Charleroi, will combine in holding a private dance on Thursday night. Joint committees are working to the end of making the affair one of the leading events in the annals of their social calendar. With the dance will also be given a euchre.

The picnic of the coming week that will be featured at the park will be that of the Monongahela Parochial schools on Thursday. Arrangements similar to those applicable for previous picnics will be in force for this gathering.

On Sunday Wheeler's orchestra will give afternoon and evening concerts. Ben Fields, the popular tenor from Pitsburg will sing at these concerts.

Closing Devotions.

Saturday, June 13, will be the closing day of St. Anthon's devotions at the Mother of Sorrows Italian Catholic church. Mass and closing devotions will be celebrated at 9 o'clock in the morning.

TO START ROAD WORK IN STATE

Money From Auto Licenses to be Expended to Improve Highways

PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

The state highway department is preparing to begin repair work at once on state highways. The decision of the Dauphin county court handed down this week releases for this purpose the sum of $1,028,665, which is the accumulated money derived from the taxation of automobiles and licensing of drivers during the current year. This vast amount of money has been withheld from the state highway department. The decision of the auditor general and the state treasurer, who have sought judicial interpretation of the act of July 7, 1913, under which all such sums are appropriated to the uses of the state highway department. The decisio nof th Dauphin county court, which was rendered in two cases, involving, respectively, $1,035 and $1,107, a total of $2,142, was a voluminous document handed down by Judge S. J. M. McCarrell of the Dauphin county court, with the concurrence of Judge C. V. Henry of the Lebanon county court, who sat with him in this case. Unless further delay is caused by an appeal taken from this decision the "good roads" cause will receive an uplift in Pennsylvania.

State Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow says that the money will be used for the purpose of putting in first clas condition all of the state highways of the commonwealth. He points out that the state highway department possesses machinery, material and a force of workers necessary to begin operations at a moment's notice throughout the entire state. During the past few months, while the cases were before the courts in their various aspects, the state highway department has utilized the oportunity to put its working force in condition to tart work just as soon as word was given. Commissioner Bigelow intends to have the state highways gone over thoroughly, broken places repaired, gutters cleaned out, drains and culverts fixed and the roadway scraped, cleaned and put in tip-top condition. Necessarily it will not be possible to enter on new construction to any great extent since the amount of money available will barely suffice for the purposes outlined on the 9,000 miles of state highways.

A point of interest in connection with the decision as the source from which the $1,028,665 was derived. This sum was the amount on hand at close of business on June 8, the day on which the court's decision was handed down.

The amount of money turned over to the State Treasury on June 7, 1913 from the automobile division of the state highway department was $696,478.37 as compared with $1,028,665, on June 8, 1914.

SAFETY-FIRST; HOT WEATHER.

Put hot weather and a nervous, excitable temperament together and add a little bit of dangerous temptation and you have an approved working idea for a safety-first movement. Hot weather serves magnificently as a progenitor of danger, if it can be spoken of in those terms. Without the influence of a little common sense just as likely as not there are going to be regrettable happenings and perhaps fatalities.

Within the last few days, hot weather and temperament combined have indirectly resulted in deaths. The story is the same—swimming too soon after eating, rocking the boat, or some other such foolish diversion.

The exercise of a little common sense during this heat wave will go far toward the accomplishment of two objects. It will prove an invaluable aid in the essential purpose of preserving one's mental equilibrium, and it will save us all from the great danger of doing things that may be attended with serious consequences.

Probably the best way to enjoy warm weather is to grin and bear it and if you can't grin, bear it anyhow. Its safer and infinitely more agreeable.

SHOULD BE OPTIMISTIC

To look on the bright side of life and its affairs with an enthusiastic belief that everything is all right and for the best is ideal. This is especially true as applies to those who come in contact with the sick. A physician above all men, should be an optomist—ready to stimulate hope even though he may not have it himself. Hopefulness in the countenance and optimism in the words and actions of the physicians are as sunshine in the sick room: they stimulate hopefulness of recovery in the sick and a courage that often has potent influence for good.

Even when recovery is not possible, the Journal of the American Medical Association things that good, not harm is done. They make life worth living while it lasts. The phychic influence is always felt so long as consciousness remains. Paget speaking of hypochondricas, says, "Your chances of doing good will depend mainly on the skill with which you can influence the patent's mind; for of the components of his case the mental condition is the worst."

PROGRAM FOR ORGAN RECITAL IS GOOD ONE

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A young woman whose sole experience in courts had been confined to that of viewing the solemn gray stone of the exterior of the court house, was called upon expectedly to serve as a witness in a civil suit against a certain dealer. She was a trifle nervous and apprehensive as the day for the case arrived, and began wondering what her duties would be in court.

Not satisfied with the information given her concerning actions in court she hunted up her brother to propound a few questions to him.

"Tell me, how do I swear?" she asked.

"Hold up your right hand and say 'Damn' he replied. She asked no more questions.

Invited out to a friend's home for dinner, a mother took her little son of tender age. The dinner was characteristic, and was more fastidious than satisfying to a hungry stomach.

Plainly the lad was not satisfied with what he received as his portion. He did not have much to say after the meal, but became very figidity.

Just as he and his mother were about to leave for home, he looked at her a moment and queried:

"Mother, are we going to have supper when we get home?"

Emigrant's Romance.

How a photograph led to a romance was made known at Liverpool just before the departure for Australia of the White Star liner Irishman, which carries no fewer than five brides-elect going out to join their fiances.

One of these five has never seen her future husband, and has nothing but a photograph to tell her what he looks like. The bride-elect said that a friend of hers went to Australia three years ago as a domestic servant and married later a sheep farmer. The young wife displayed upon the mantelpiece a photograph of a chum of the sheep farmer. Photographs were exchanged and a correspondence was begun, with the result that the girl has sailed to marry the lover she has never seen.

Big Chautauqua Week Attraction

THE BEN GREET PLAYERS

ONE of the greatest events on the forthcoming Chautauqua program this season will be the coming of the Ben Greet Players. A company of thirteen players, personally trained and coached by Ben Greet, are to appear here.

Mr. Greet is considered today one of the greatest living authorities on the English drama and is world famous for his remarkable productions of Shakespearean plays and old English comedies. He has been connected with the stage for thirty years and has taught many actors, perhaps more than any other man living today.

For twenty years Mr. Greet has been prominent in England for performances in which his splendid companies have acted each year in London, Cambridge, Stratford on Avon and other places in "Shakespeare's England."

Mr. Greet became well known in America several years ago through his presentation of the morality play "Everyman" under the management of Charles Frohman. This was the first time a play was presented in America by a professional company in the Elizabethan manner. This was later followed by a production of Shakespearean plays and classical comedies.

The company of thirteen Ben Greet Players who are to appear on the Chautauqua program here is the same company which made a transcontinental tour under Redpath management during the winter just past, playing to large crowds and mostly in the cities.

Ants Which Plant and Bake.

The extraordinary habits of the harvester ant have been known to naturalists. Certain species not only harvest and store in granaries the seeds upon which they feed, but actually plant and cultivate an annual crop of their food seeds. Still more remarkable stories are told of an ant that is common in Dalmatia, the Messor barbarus. According to Dr. Neger of the Dresden forestry school, this ant not only cuts leaves and gathers seed, but actually makes makes bread or biscuit! The seeds are first sprouted, then carried into the sun and dried, then taken back to the underground chambers, where they are chewed into a dough. The dough is then finally made into tiny cakes, which are baked in the sun, then carefully stored for future use. From these observations it would appear that the art of cooking is not confined to the human race.

Common Oriental Headwear.

The fez or tarbush is limited by no considerations of nationality or faith. It is the almost universal head covering of the eastern and southern lands of the Mediterranean and has been widely distributed in the still active diffusion of Mohammedanism. This type of felt hat without brim is of the utmost antiquity and seems to have undergone no marked change save the tassel, from the early monumental record of the Euphrates valley. The designation fez, comparatively modern in its application, derives from the oasis the only source of dye stuffs which could give the peculiar shade of red most favored.

The Dream-Lion.

A Vienna professor is credited with saying that dreams are usually wish-fulfillments. Maybe so. What about that childish dream in which the ferocious lion comes bounding along behind you, and you run as boy never ran before, and the lion closes the gap little by little, and then—all of a sudden—your legs grow limp, and your muscles turn to water, and your feet fray out, and the lion leaps—and you awake with a yell, if your voice isn't paralyzed, and everybody in the house wakes with you?

Are You Alive?

There is no way by which you can "probe" to another that you "are alive." It is a matter of consciousness, of your own consciousness, and he who doubts your existence must keep on doubting so far as any argument that you may be able to offer him is concerned. If he will not take your word on the matter the whole controversy is forever settled.—Suburban Life.

EFFECT OF LIGHT ON EYES

When Illumination Is Too Strong, the Optic Nerve Is Subjected to a Severe Strain.

How few persons realize that they are actually suffering from snow blindness in miniature every time they read or work over a white surface on which a brilliant light shines directly. Half-tone paper, for instance, which is the common medium for the majority of books we read, will throw a blinding glare into the eye of the reader if the light strikes it at the wrong angle, and it forms an excellent test for the selection of proper lighting for a room and for the placing of the lighting fixtures, for lighting diffusion should be such as to allow comfortable reading from half-tone paper in any position.

A dome hanging above a dining-table on which is white cloth causes the light to reflect into the eyes of those around the table at an angle that produces muscular strain. This has a peculiar effect upon the senses, and drowsiness and mental inertia are likely to result. People are likely to complain of a feeling of dullness at table, or that they have indigestion, when it is, in reality, the effect of the light. A too brilliant light shining directly into the eye plays many curious psychological tricks. Deaf people, for instance, cannot hear so well if they are facing a brilliantly lighted room, and, as for being able to see better by a bright light than a dim one, exactly the reverse is the case, for details of objects become practically lost to the eye when too much light enters it.—Suburban Life.

The United States navy department aims to develop to perfection the smokeless torpedo boat destroyer, just as the navies of all the other nations are trying to do; but a recent test gave results most gratifying to the officials. It was shown during the annual speed tests of the third and fourth groups including ten vessels

The Jouett exceeded her contract speed by averaging 32.9 on a two hours' run. The Beale, of the "sea hornets," carried off the smokeless honors, scoring 100 per cent. She ran for four hours with absolutely no smoke showing from her funnels.

AMONG THE THEATRES

PALACE—CHARLEROI

Featuring attractions were numerous this w at the Palace theatre, beginning o. Monday with "The Little Shepherd," in three reels, and "The Fringe on the Glove," a two-reel Kalem picture. On Tuesday the wonderful Pathe weekly was shown together with a two-reel Vitagraph picture, "The Countess' Jewels" "A Man's Soul" in two reels, "The Path of Sorrow," in three reels and "In the Northland," a two-reel Lubin and the Selig-Hearst pictorial composed the Thursday program, which was one of the best day's programs of the entire week. On Saturday is billed "The White Ghost," in three reels, "The Son," a Biograph and "Love's Token" a Vitagraph picture. Monday's pictures will be an entirely new and distinct feature. The name of the production will be "Twilight," one of the most beautiful stories ever written. It will be produced in four parts.

COYLE—CHARLEROI

Carrying out the plan of presenting seven reels of fine pictures a day, the Coyle theatre this week had an excellent run, with the leading feature being a Thursday picture, "The Hills of Silence" that was produced in three reels. The story told was one of unusual merit, it having been acted by the Bison producers. Several two reel pictures were included in the weekly program. On Monday, "Wheels of Destiny" was a leader, together with "In the Fangs of Jealousy." Tuesday's list of features included. "On the Chess Board of Fate" and "In the Cow Country," while Wednesday's specials were distinctly meritous. The titles of the Wednesday pictures were "The Newlywed's Dilemma," "A Million in Pearls," "Golden Dross," "Down on the Farm" and "Won by Wire." "Footprints of Mozart" was the name of a new kind of photoplay that was among the week's most attractive productions.

LYRIC—CHARLEROI

"The Detective's Sister," a story of rare heart appeal was presented as one of the leading feature productions at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday of this week by Manager Pennman. The story was one in which the intricacies of fate applicable to the relation of love to such a remote thing as thieving was cleverly pictured. "The Antique Engagement Ring" was a two-reel feature that was produced on Monday night to appreciative audiences, and on Tuesday night "An American King" was the title of the special photoplay that featured an otherwise meritous program. "The Klondike Bubble" possessed an interest that was engrossing and it was a picture that rounded out an exceedingly good Wednesday night program. Anticipation is felt in the coming production on Saturday of "The Regeneration of Man," in two parts. It is described as a picture of merit and much interest

THE GRAND—PITTSBURG.

"Fifty Miles from Boston" has been chosen by Manager Harry Davis for the second week of the supplemental season of the Davis Players in the Grand Opera House. This successful three-act musical play from the pen of George M. Cohen will be played each afternoon and evening during the week beginning Monday matinee, June 15. In addition to the entire complement of players forming the regular Davis organization, the stock forces will be augmented by a chorus of twenty voices and incidental to the action various members of the company will present varied specialties. "Fifty Miles from Boston" is set in the charming but prosaic environment of New England and tells a story of village life. Its characters are typical of the "down East" section. The plot weaves the love theme of Sadie Woodis, a pretty postmistress of Brookfield, Mass., and of Joe Wescott, the hero of the Harvard base ball team. Among the song hits are "Jack and Jill." "Waltz with Me." "A Small Town Gal," "Harrigan," "Ain't It Awful," "The Brookfield Two-Step" and "The Boys that Fight the Flames." The original productions introduced a notable cast, with Donald Brian in the role of Joe Westcott, Fritz Williams as Jed Woodis, Grayce Scott as Sadie Woodis, Emma Janvier as Mrs. Tilford, George Parsons as Dave Harrigan, James C. Marlow as Tim Harrigan, James H Bradbury, as Anthony Westcott, John D. O'Hara as Moseley, Lores Grim as Eddie Moseley, Russel Pincus as Roy, Louise Reial as Mrs. Westcott, Hazel Lowrey as Nellie Harrigan and Beatrice Harris as Aunt Katie. These characters in the Davis production will be played by Edward Lynch, Anne Bronaugh, Saxone Moreland, Faith Avery, Mary Stuart Smith, Hollister Pratt, Edwin Evans, William H. Powell, Hal De Forest, Philip Pe Fred C. House and James Crosby.

VALUE OF PROPER SPELLING

Attribute Highly Valued in Commercial Life, and Is a Sense to Be Developed.

Good spelling and intelligent punctuation are the accomplishments that keep many gray-haired women drawing good salaries as stenographers in downtown offices. The manager of a typewriting office from which are sent hundreds of stenographers makes no secret of the fact that good spellers are scarce.

"We had a customer come in the other day," said the manager, "who had evidently had a run of hard luck in the spelling line. He wanted a woman who could spell. No matter if she's cross-eyed and has a hunch on her back,' he said, 'if she can spell and write an intelligent letter.' While this was a rather extreme case it shows that employers are beginning to grow impatient over the careless spelling of today."

Another office sending out many stenographers has a series of test letters prepared especially with spelling catches for the unwary. Common words, famous as pitfalls for careless spellers, are strewn throughout these specimen letters. Fully half the applicants put an extra e in separate; in many cases the e before the last syllable in noticeable is missing, while the correct placing of the l's in the word parallel reduces many of the applicants to a state of discouragement.

"Good spelling is a pretty sure sign of mental alertness," said a business man with several offices and many stenographers. "I find that if one of our stenographers is naturally a good speller she is interested in the correct spelling and use of new words that come to her attention in reading or in dictation. Now as a matter of fact it is no small job to keep up with the spelling of the hundreds of new words.

"Our oldest stenographer and our best speller keeps on her desk a little book not more than an inch thick, but it has more first aids to poor spellers than anything I've ever seen. She doesn't use it much, but everybody else does."—Chicago Record-Herald

UNDERSTOOD ALL THE REST

On Only One Comparatively Unimportant Point Was the Juror at Fault.

It quite often happens that in addressing a jury, the lawyers will deliver their appeals to the one member who seems to them the most intelligent. They consider that by so doing they can impress him and his influence upon the other members will be valuable

In a recent case, all the testimony had been taken, the lawyers had summed up and the judge had charged the jury, when the juror who appeared the most intelligent, and to whom both counsel had made their impassioned appeal, arose, and stated that he wished the court to give him some information.

"I have been bothered a great deal," he said, "about two words the lawyers have been using all the time."

"What are they?" asked the court, expecting to be called upon to explain the meaning of some words like "res inter alios acta."

"Why, the words that I don't know the meaning of," said the juror, "are 'plaintiff' and 'defendant.'"—Exchange.

An Improving World.

A somewhat old-fashioned Bostonian who more than a score of years ago was very prominent in public life remarked recently: "I have observed with interest quite a change in the personal habits of men during the past 25 years. It used to be very common to see business and professional men, as well as those in public life and holding official positions, wearing silk hats and Prince Albert coats every day in the week, and if they smoked at all they smoked cigars. Nowadays silk hats are rarely seen on week days downtown, anyway, and cigarette smoking seems to be quite the thing I do not think the new fashion is quite so dignified or manly as the old, but on the whole I am convinced the world is growing better all the time."

Horse's Tobacco Habit Is Expensive.

A Beverly teamster is lamenting the fact that his horse has acquired the tobacco habit and he is wondering if his employer would "stand for" an expense account.

The horse, which started in one the habit by taking an occasional nibble of "fine cut," now expects a plug a day and the driver says the animal will "loaf on the job" unless he receives that allowance

The habit has become an expensive one for the driver, and he declares it has reached a point where he must do one of two things, quit using tobacco himself or get "the boss" to advance money for the horse's share —Boston Post.

"Rabbit Drives" Advocated.

The western farmer dislikes the coyote, and a bounty is offered for its pelt; the result is that the coyotes have greatly diminished. But, says the Portland Oregonian, the killing of the coyotes has resulted in a great increase of rabbits, many experiments have been made to diminish their number by inoculating them with disease, but without satisfactory results. Rabbit "drives" are the only sure remedy: 16,000 jack rabbits were killed in one county in Oregon in this way last winter.

Shah's Cold-Blooded Suggestion to English Monarch—Why the Prince Left White's Club.

An amusing story of particular interest at the moment is told concerning the duke of Sutherland by Lord Rosebery in "My Memories." When the late shah of Persia visited this country, the late King Edward, who was then prince of Wales, told him that the duke of Sutherland owned large estates in Scotland as well as in England. The shah is alleged to have said, "He must be very rich. Of course, when you come to the throne you will—" And here he made an expressive gesture with his finger across his throat.

Lord Suffield was on close terms of intimacy with the late king, who, although he had the reputation of amiability and geniality, drew very plainly the limits which guarded his dignity. On one occasion his late majesty was at the Big White's club, and began to light a cigar in a room in which people do not usually smoke. Some officious official came up and said so, and the prince replied, quite pleasantly that he was just going The official retorted, rather rudely, that the club rules must be observed, no matter who the member was, and the prince, without another word, left the club, and withdrew his name next day The Marlborough owes its existence to that little lapse or lack of tact on the part of one of White's people.

EUROPE'S MOST TACTFUL MAN

Viscount Knollys, the Late King Edward's Friend, Has Been Accorded That Distinction.

Europe's most "tactful man" is, by common consent, Viscount Knollys first baron of Caversham, who is now just seventy-six. For over 40 years he was private secretary to British royalty, the friend and counsellor of three monarchs, and his recent retirement was considered in court circles to be little less than a calamity. It has been said of him that "no other man ever knew so much or said so little." The tribute is deserved, for Lord Knollys was always a human sphynx Shrewd insight, unfailing tact and courtesy, and the rare ability to hold his tongue, enabled him to win and hold the esteem and respect of not only those he directly served but of cabinet ministers, diplomats and the people at large. Only the reporters disliked him, for never a word were they able to get out of him

It was in 1886 that Francis Knollys then merely a "Mr," entered the service of royalty as gentleman usher to Queen Victoria. Two years later he was appointed private secretary to the prince of Wales, later King Edward.

No Royal Cross Saddles.

King George and Queen Mary do not favor the use of cross saddles by girls and women. Hence Princess Mary's recent first appearance in the hunting field carried with it a certain sense of disappointment to those aristocratic women—and their number is an ever increasing one—who have exchanged the side saddle of their predecessors for the cross saddle of men not only at the covert side, but also in the park. Nevertheless, the new custom is one that has not yet found favor in royal circles.

Making Carnegie Irish.

Lancelot F. Madden, Irish historian, rises to remark that the story that Andrew Carnegie derived his surname from a Hungarian ancestor is absurd "Carnegie or O'Carnegie," says he, "is identical with the names of O'Carney, O'Kearney and O'Carnegie, and is, like them, derived from the original Irish or Gaelic names of O'Cearnaighe. The family is well known in Irish annals and is a branch of the O'Maddens of Ulster."

THE EXPRESS IS IN OUR TOWN

AND IN TO STAY

FOR seventy five years—three-quarters of a century the express has been the right-hand of the shippers of commercial America. The Expresss came to Charleroi in 1889 and it came to stay. For 25 years it has been the right-hand of commercial Charleroi.

It is here to stay. The other day when reports went out that the express companies might retire from business, a protest went up. From whom this protest—the express companies? No! The merchants of the country—shippers everywhere—petitioned Congress that no action be taken that might have the effect of forcing the express companies to retire. Commercial organizations all over the land have joined in this appeal to Washington.
